

Incident and Injury Free Thought Provoker

Teamwork

Any accomplishment is built on relationships.

If we want to have greater accomplishment in our work groups or in our lives, we need to rely on more people and work together as a team.

Take Action

- Talk to someone today who works in the refinery. It could be a person that you don't know very well, or someone that you work with on a regular basis. Ask him (or her) what is so important in her life that she wouldn't want to miss, and then share your thoughts on the subject as well. This is another way of finding out and sharing "My Reason for Being Safe". Click on the link below to submit your "My Reason for Being Safe" story to the IIFLT.
- You may discover that the other person is a serious golfer, or is working to care for his or her family, or loves baseball. Learning more about each other, beyond the usual "Name, Rank, and Serial Number" strengthens our relationships, and builds our ability for greater accomplishments.

Resources

Richmond Refinery Incident and Injury Free Webpage

My Reason for Being Safe story